

I strongly oppose the move to allow such stranglehold control of the media. Diverse media voices lie at the core of our democracy and must be protected. Moreover, past incidents have proven that national (and international) conglomerates pay little heed to local concerns and interests. The only benefit I can see to this move is to a few big business, not to the public whom you represent.